SECRETARY REPORT:

The Eleventh Concept states: "NA funds are to be used to fulfill our primary purpose, and must be managed responsibly." Ideally, after paying for their expenses, groups send money directly to each level of service to help pay for the work done on their behalf. This example is one of many possible models groups can use. Some groups also set aside a small operating reserve (sometimes called a "prudent reserve"), often a month's rent or expenses. The Group Booklet cautions us that "too much money in the till causes far more trouble than too little money." For more information on managing the group's funds, consult some of the following resources, which are available online or through your usual NA literature source: The Group Booklet, Treasurer's Handbook, Group Treasurer's Workbook, A Guide to Local Services in NA.
